Prez's Note

Well another 2 months have flown by and still no break in the weather to allow us all to get out and ride.

The tech night hosted by Scott and Doug was the best yet the venue was perfect and the presentation by Scott was excellent and extremely informative, I look forward to the topic and venue being revisited, Thanks Scott and Doug.

The AMCM attend the CycleRama 12th to 14th of April with 10 bikes and an slew of volunteers, results of how effective the weekend were, only time will tell, a big "Thank you" to all who displayed their Bikes and volunteered.

The next event we can look forward to is "Auction Night" on April 30 at Winnipeg HD 7:30om, please remember to bring all your items that evening. Let's make it a great night for Spina Bifida and our members.

We will have registration forms for the Rally at this month's meeting (April), be sure to come up and grab one.

Our ride list for this year has been approved, Thanks to Patrick Sarginson MPI, Russ Metcalf for their efforts in getting these ride's the green light.

See you at the meeting

Cheers

Barry

Buy with confidence, own with pride.

Riding a Motorcycle Improved Metrics of Focus and Decreased Stress Biomarkers, According to a New Neurobiological Study

January 17, 2019      Sponsored by Harley Davidson Motor Company

Motorcyclists have long championed riding as their main road to stress relief and positive mental health. Today, the results of a neurobiological study conducted by a team of three researchers from UCLA's Semel Institute for Neuroscience and Human Behavior yielded pioneering scientific evidence revealing the potential mental and physical benefits of riding. Funded by Harley-Davidson, the study found that motorcycling increased metrics of focus and attention, and decreased relative levels of cortisol, a hormonal marker of stress.

Researchers recorded participants' brain activity and hormone levels before, during, and after motorcycling, driving a car, and resting. While riding a motorcycle, participants experienced increased sensory focus and resilience to distraction. Riding also produced an increase in adrenaline levels and heart rate, as well as a decrease in cortisol metrics – results often associated with light exercise and stress-reduction.

“Stress levels, especially among young adults, continue to rise, and people are exploring pathways to better their mental and physical health. Until recently, the technology to rigorously measure the impact of activities like motorcycling on the brain didn't exist,” said Dr. Don Vaughn, the neuroscientist who led the research team. “The brain is an amazingly complex organ and it's fascinating to rigorously investigate the physical and mental effects riders report.”

Results Highlights:

- Riding a motorcycle decreased hormonal biomarkers of stress by 28%
- On average, riding a motorcycle for 20 minutes increased participants' heart rates by 11 percent and adrenaline levels by 27 percent—similar to light exercise
- Sensory focus was enhanced while riding a motorcycle versus driving a car, an effect also observed in experienced meditators vs non-meditators
- Changes in study participants' brain activity while riding suggested an increase in alertness similar to drinking a cup of coffee

“While scientists have long-studied the relationship of brain and hormone responses to attention and stress, doing so in real-life conditions such as these is rare,” explained UCLA Professor and senior team member, Dr. Mark Cohen. “No lab experiment can duplicate the feelings that a motorcyclist would have on the open road.”

“The differences in participants’ neurological and physiological responses between riding and other measured activities were quite pronounced,” continued Dr. Vaughn. “This could be significant for mitigating everyday stresses.”

Research Overview

The research team monitored participants’ electrical brain activity and heart rate, as well as levels of adrenaline, nor adrenaline, and cortisol. To be presented later this year, the Harley-Davidson funded study, entitled “The mental and physical effects of riding a motorcycle” measured the biological and physiological responses of more than 50 experienced motorcyclists, using mobile EEG technology.

“We’re leveraging the latest technologies as we shift our focus from exclusively motorcycles to growing ridership, so it only made sense to tap technology to explore the impact of riding itself,” said Heather Malenshek, Harley-Davidson’s Senior Vice President of Marketing & Brand. “The research findings Dr. Vaughn and his team identified helps explain what our riders have felt for the past 116 years – there’s a vitality and heightened sensory experience that comes from the freedom of riding a motorcycle. We hope their findings inspire the next generation of riders to experience these benefits along with us.”

The Ultimate New Year’s Resolution: Learning to Ride

For those who wish to experience the heightened sensory experience of riding first-hand, H-D Riding Academy will introduce you to motorcycle riding and build your skills in just a few days, regardless of experience level. Offered at select Harley-Davidson dealers, H-D Riding Academy provides expert guidance from Harley-Davidson certified coaches. In the classroom, you get to know basic motorcycle functions and learn the basics of rider safety skills. On the practice range, you build skills and confidence, learning everything from braking, turning and skilled manouvers. Best of all, you will be connected to a growing community of new riders. To find available courses near you, contact your local dealer or search for classes at www.h-d.com.

The Bill Watt 2019 Mileage Challenge

Not everyone will want to rack up huge mileage on their vintage motorcycles. To recognize the efforts of AMCM members that get out and display their bikes, members that attend at least 10 events will be entered in a prize draw. To be eligible to participate you must be an AMCM Member and be listed on 2019 printed Roster. Only events attended with a vintage motorcycle are counted, whether the motorcycle is driven or trailered to the event. As soon as you reach ten you can turn your list in and try for ten more. Make sure your entry is turned in at or before the October meeting when we will have the draw. The winner for the highest mileage achieved will get a cool trophy, a decent prize and get to suggest a name for next years 2020 Mileage Challenge. Remember to take a digital photo of your odometer(s) this spring and again at or prior to the October meeting which will be the finish line for this year's mileage Challenge. During the year there will be additional rides "To Be Announced" at club meetings or sent out as a mass e-mail that will qualify as eligible rides.

Look out for: To Be Announced Friday "Garage Hops", Saturday "Lunch Runs" and Sadie Grim Wednesday "Ice Cream Runs" some of which may be more convenient for riders living outside Winnipeg or riders unable to get free time on Weekends. You're welcome to take photos, send them to Raymond with a short writeup, and you could end up in the newsletter. Remember to keep your ride list and the 2019 AMCM Roster with you on all rides.

Clarification of rules

We don't count miles in a boat
You cannot haul it in a tote
They will not count if on a plane
Or truck or trailer in the rain
Will not allow them on a treadmill
Or with a cable chucked in your drill
We won't allow them on a bus
Or in an Uber we don't trust
We won't put up with speedo's changed
Or tag team brothers in the game
Bonus miles added, number true now
To J.B. Nicholson you will take a vow
See your trophy displayed at home
For one full year its yours to own

AMCM event recap Spina Bifida Fundraiser

Bud Spud and Steak April 18 held at the Belgium Club Spina Bifida Fundraiser

The AMCM ended up with about 14 (two Bikes) from the Club attending. We had Two tables and as a group cleaned house at the silent auction. Terence said it was the first sell out and one of the biggest turnouts for them the Belgium Club.

Rob won two prizes plus a large item, Jerry three, Don three and Tom's son Terence won a prize and a pile of cash on the 50/50. We backed Jim's wagon up to the back door and shoveled out the loot like bandits. Rob was on his BMW so Jerry pitched in and they left with a loaded truck.

Spina Bifida did very well too, Terence barely had a chance to sit down.

Best food at a BS&S ever, plus cake and coffee for dessert. $20.00

Jets score early everyone left happy.

Thank you to all who attended

Ken

It was a simple request. Someone wanted me to find a hero.

"My name is Daniel Marcoux," the email began, "and I was hoping that you might be able to assist my mother, Marcelle."

He went on to explain his mother was turning 80 near the end of July.

During the summer of 1951, while she was on a Red River boat cruise celebrating her 21st birthday with her newlywed husband, she fell overboard.

Gerry Genest, 26, jumped in after his bride of just five weeks.

He would drown imploring others to save his wife.

The young woman was saved by the only person among the two dozen aboard that summer Sunday afternoon who knew how to swim — the 16-year-old boat owner's son.

Daniel added this to his email:

"My mother was hoping to reach out to make the person who saved her realize the blessing it was to save her life."

Nearly six decades later, that blessing had turned into many blessings.

Thirty more by my count.

* * *

Newspaper accounts of July 30, 1951, had identified him as Raymond Hood, but his name was Raymond Houde.

That's what made him hard to find.

But find him I did.

And so it happened that last Sunday Raymond and Marcelle met again — this time at the conservatory in Assiniboine Park, where they hugged and mugged for the family cameras.

"I didn't know if you would be interested to meet me," the still bubbly and beautiful Marcelle told the tall and still handsome Raymond.

"A good-looking gal like you," Raymond smiled.

Then the mood turned more sombre.

Marcelle read him a letter she had written the night before, telling him how much this day meant to her, and how her life had turned out because of what he did.

"I just about got into tears there," Raymond acknowledged later.

Marcelle's tearful time was when it happened, not at the joyous reunion.

"They gave me nerve pills for the whole month of August," she recalled of the dark weeks after she lost the man she had loved at first sight.

What finally eased the grief was something no one knew when Raymond rescued her that Sunday afternoon a lifetime ago.

She was pregnant.

And suddenly Raymond Houde had saved two lives that day.

The baby girl was born eight-and-a-half months after Gerry drowned. Marcelle named her Geraldine in his memory.

It was the blessing of being pregnant with Gerry's child that helped Marcelle begin to heal.

Geraldine was at the reunion Sunday and she recalled how, over the years, her mother would tell the story of her husband's heroic death.

And the life he left behind.

As it happened, Marcelle had even more to look forward to.

Four years after Gerry died, she married Leonard Marcoux, a veterinarian from Morris she met on a blind date. Marcelle would go on to have eight more children with him.

Today, widowed again, she also has 17 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

And that's how the blessing Raymond Houde bestowed on Marcelle Genest begat so many more blessings.

* * *

I had a question for Marcelle.

I wondered how she felt, how she coped, right after the accident, before carrying Gerry's baby gave her a reason to carry on.

Marcelle recalled how, the day of the accident, she was standing on a dock watching police dragging the river for her young husband's body.

"And you could see all the water rippling," Marcelle said.

"And it's so inviting after you've been in the water, battling. And I said... I should just jump in there and just..."

That's the ripple effect of death.

What's not very easy to think about — in a moment of grief — is what saving one life can do.

But now, looking back over nearly six decades, Raymond Houde can actually count the lives he saved by rescuing one.

Thirty more and counting.

That's the ripple effect of life.

DID YOU KNOW?

Chas has a little yard bike which he bought as fun for his grandkids. He built a tiny wooden side-car for it also for fun, but also to test a theory he had to improve side-car handling. Chas owns a full-sized side-car for his R90 BMW with the usual side-car chassis and hook-up arrangement to the BMW. He felt that a hinge arrangement that allowed the side-car to tilt independently from the motorcycle would be an advantage and improve the handling of the usual less-than-ideal side-car rig. He has made a beautiful job of the project and it handles extremely well and proves his point that a hinged pivot definitely improves the ride and handling of a sidecar outfit.

One can clearly see that the side-car wheel remains on the ground even if the bike is leaned over to the left and doesn't lift off the ground as in a conventional hook-up. David P looks pretty comfortable puffing on his usual cigar!
